“We Need to do More to Shine a Light on Women...” Hillary Clinton

Women Change Makers: Celebrating the Trailblazers Shaping the Future!

On Show at Phoenix Art Space, Brighton: May 28 - June 8

As Hillary Clinton emphasises the importance of recognizing untold stories of women's contributions, the upcoming Women Change Makers exhibition at the Phoenix Art Space promises to highlight the achievements of exceptional women breaking barriers in their fields.

Brighton, UK – Get ready to be inspired! From May 28 to June 8, the Phoenix Art Space will transform into a vibrant celebration of fierce female empowerment with the Women Change Makers exhibition. This remarkable showcase, created by acclaimed photo-artist Clare Newton, shines a spotlight on the incredible women leading the charge in traditionally male-dominated industries.

Clare wasn't just content to take a snapshot of the world; she took it upon herself to change the narrative. After reflecting on her own experiences and the glaring absence of women in the limelight, she launched Women Change Makers—a project that combines stunning portraits with captivating podcast stories. This unique exhibition will feature inspiring women from fields as diverse as tech, engineering, law, and the arts, all of whom have defied the odds to make their mark.

“Let’s face it,” Clare says, “women have been sidelined for too long. It’s time we celebrate the achievements of those who are breaking barriers and paving the way for the next generation!” The exhibition is not just a gallery of pretty pictures; it’s a heartfelt tribute to the journeys of women who have reshaped their industries, proving that they belong everywhere.

Each portrait is paired with a podcast where these trailblazers share their personal stories, challenges, and triumphs in their own voices. These intimate narratives offer a deeper understanding of what it takes to succeed in a world that often overlooks women’s contributions. Expect wisdom, humor, and a generous helping of real talk!
